STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The National Assembly represents federating units on the basis of the population in contrast to the Senate which ensures equality in representation, regardless of the population size of any federating unit. Additionally, the nature of elections, terms of office and the powers and functions in various matters for the members, Chairman and Deputy Chairman of the Senate and the members, Speaker and Deputy Speaker of the National Assembly vary from each other. Regardless of the aforesaid fact, The Deputy Chairman and Deputy Speaker (Salaries, Allowances and Privileges) Act, 1975, deals with both the Deputy Chairman Senate and Deputy Speaker National Assembly under one enactment that does not justify and sufficiently provide for the functions and responsibilities of both positions. This Bill aims at providing separate provisions regarding Deputy Chairman Senate from the existing Act, by repealing the clauses in so far as it relates to the Deputy Chairman and for the matters ancillary thereto.
