Statement of Objects and Reasons

The Emigration Ordinance, 1979 has been enacted to regulate and manage the emigration of Pakistani citizens to other countries with main purposes include protecting the rights and interests of Pakistani emigrants, and preventing illegal emigration and human trafficking from Pakistan. As per the criminal record of convictions, in the majority of cases, the Courts have awarded only a fine to the culprits. To curb the menace of unlawful emigration and create deterrence among perpetrators and prevent repetition of offenses, it is inevitable to amend the Court's discretion, which currently has the option to award either imprisonment or a fine. It is imperative that imprisonment be made mandatory, along with the imposition of a fine by enhancing the punishments, therefore, it has been divulged that amendments in section 17, 18 and 22 of Emigration Ordinance, 1979 are required.
